

Alethex Beta Tester Application

Alethex beta testers get early access to the features the development team is working on. The program is exclusive with limited availability, and we hope you will join us. We want to make the software better for small-to-midsize banks and credit unions, and we need thoughtful feedback on each new release from our testers such as: How useful did you find it? What bugs still need fixing? What could be improved, added, or taken away?

Being a part of the beta group at Alethex is a commitment. It means you agree to use some software in your daily life that is bound to be a little rough around the edges. It also means you're willing to take the time to help us smooth out those rough edges.
